

MYSTERY PLAY PROVES ATTRACTIVE

WAINWRIGHT DRAMATIC CLUB
EXCELS IN THEIR LATEST OFFERING

The local theatre was nicely filled on Thursday last when Bob Dunsmore's "Thespian" (to wit: the Wainwright Dramatic Club) produced one of the latest of New York's mystery plays, "Cat o' nine tails". And produced it, too, in a manner well befitting old and seasoned members of the footlights.

The play which deals with the manner in which an international crook attempts to obtain possession of State papers of diplomatic value and the many and varied ways in which his several episodes are foiled, was one to stir the thinking power to exhaustion, and very many were the (wrong) guesses as to the identity of the "Cat" before the final denouement showed that the innocent appearing "Henry" was the "The Crook Himself!"

In the casting of such a company of characters and the training of them for such a production, Mr. Dunsmore is truly to be congratulated upon the result achieved, and although he was not seen before the footlights on this occasion his "hand at the helm" was fully noticeable.

In commenting on the several characters, it was early apparent that the artists were all fully alive to the many and varied situations which their individual impersonation afforded, and the work of the play being fairly evenly balanced, each one had full opportunity to display their talent.

Possibly the heaviest part fell to "Henry" (Mr. Dickins) who in his dual role of chore boy and "The Cat" made much of his part. Mrs. Wallace, too, had a role to which she was well suited, and played the heavy character of a female Sherlock Holmes to perfection.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, around the lives of whom the whole play was mysteriously woven, were characters which were ably carried by Mr. Lister and Mrs. Kenny respectively, and all other parts were played in a truly appreciative manner, making the production one of the outstanding plays which the local Thespian have presented to Wainwright audiences.

A Detective Fox, Mr. G. Boyd, one of the newest members of the club held a difficult part, with a zany frod comic excellently in older actors, while as usual Mr. G. Glass as "Jimmy" made a really first class "Mama's boy" except perhaps when he over-stepped the bounds of propriety by getting married without the parental consent.

As "Betty" Miss M. Cruse (another new comer to the club) made a truly adorable secretly-married wife for Jimmie as well as a dutiful daughter of Lodge-keeper Jacob (Mr. E. Turner). Miss L. Boyd, too, in her role of Theodora, gave a fine conception of a sleep-walker as well as proving of value in her hypnotic scenes.

Taken as a whole the play was splendidly rendered by the cast and the audience were not slow to recognize the ability displayed, and their favorable comments were all truly well deserved.

After the final curtain, the whole company were entertained to a delicious midnight lunch at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dunsmore where they were also joined by husbands, wives and sweethearts, as well as other helpers.

The full cast was as follows:—
Mr. James Gordon—Mr. T. Lister,
Mrs. Gordon—Mrs. N. S. Kenny,
Jimmie Gordon—Mr. G. Glass, Jacob Webber—Mr. E. Turner, Betty Webber—Miss M. Cruse, Theodora Maitland—Miss L. Boyd, Henry—Mr. F. C. Dickins, Fox—Mr. G. Boyd, Miss Smith—Mrs. H. C. Wallace, Cat O' Nine Tails—Mr. F. C. Dickins.

LOCAL NOTES

There is to be no celebration of Holy Communion at St. Andrew's church (Pres.) on Sunday next this having been put over until Easter Sunday following the morning service.

Mr. Roy E. Williams arrived on Monday's train from Vancouver, all "rarin'" to go on the work at his Fab way wells.

Mr. Jack Millar of the Lilly adjusting agency was in town at the week end to settle the insurance claims over the recent Anderson fire. We learn that the settlement made pleased all parties.

WAINWRIGHT ADVERTISED IN THE ANTIPODES

MONTREAL—"Jupiter", "Toots" and "Caeser", the three Wainwright blues presented to Adelaide, Australia, by the Canadian Government, reached their new and far distant home in the pink of condition and are now well settled between the yokes and the African buffalo, according to word received from Australia. On the gate of their enclosure has been fastened a brass tablet bearing the words "Buffalo from Wainwright Alberta, Canada, Canadian National Railways, donated by the Dominion of Canada."

BUILDING RE-STARTS ON TOWN STORES

OPENING OF SPRING WEATHER IS SIGNAL FOR CONTRACTORS
TO GET BUSY

The past week has witnessed quite a vast change in the weather, and things have now assumed a more summer-like aspect.

This has been fully taken advantage of by several of our merchants who have arranged for the complete finishing of their building operations which were closed down last fall by wintry weather.

The Billing Block is now being finished outside with a coat of cement stucco, and we understand that the new hotel premises are soon to receive finishing touches of the same material.

The erection by Messrs. Foster and Brunton of an up-to-date filling and service station at the corner of Main and Third was commenced last week by the Trough Construction Co., and judging by the plans this will prove quite a nice addition to the town buildings.

The new erection, which will adjoin the garage premises already completed, is to be of fireproof construction with solid concrete walls and plate glass front. It will be 70 feet by 50 feet, with a corner ramp drive-way for the filling station thus giving shelter cars at all times when being serviced. The gasoline pumps in this instance are being placed inside the property line and also under shelter, and when finished the new premises should prove an attractive business spot.

All members of the Rebekah degree I.O.O.F. are reminded that tomorrow evening (Thursday) the degree is being conferred and their presence at lodge is requested.

Mr. Jos. Welch is at the wheel of his new Special Buick which he purchased last week from the Dupre garage.

Mrs. W. Plaxton is getting along nicely after her operation in a city hospital last week.

TO CELEBRATE NEW HOTEL OPENING

BOARD OF TRADE ARRANGING FITTING CEREMONY IN COMMEMORATION

Arrangements are on the tapis for the proper commemoration of the erection and opening of the splendid new hotel which Mr. H. C. Link has now completed for Wainwright, and from what we learn, the manner in which the Board of Trade are taking hold of this matter, it will be a fitting observance of the fact that this town now has the finest hotel accommodation of any town in northern Alberta.

The banquet, for such is the shape that the celebration will take is to be held on Wednesday April 23rd next, and will no doubt receive the hearty support of all. Tickets for the function are to be on sale within a few days and as the number of those who will necessarily have to be limited it will be advisable to obtain them as soon as available.

Mr. Roy Berry who was in hospital for several days after his accident has now returned home.

Mr. S. Bridgman, who was lately with the Safeways left at the week end for his home at Jarow, where he will have to run the farm owing to the serious illness of his father there.

Owing to being kicked by a horse last week Mr. McMullen, of Heath, a new comer to the district was brought to the hospital for treatment and is now feeling better.

TURNBULL REMAINS NOW LAID TO REST

FUNERAL OF OLD-TIMER SEES LARGE GATHERING OF SYMPATHISERS

At the United church on Wednesday last a large gathering of friends and sympathisers attended the funeral of the late Mr. George Turnbull, whose death at the age of 85 years was recorded last week.

The pastor, Rev. N. W. Whitmore, who conducted the service at both church and graveside, spoke feelingly of the hope of the resurrection, and the glories of the life beyond the grave, and the congregation joined in the singing of a couple of favor it hymns of the deceased.

The arrangements were in the hands of Mr. McLeod's widow and late-in-law, who made a Wainwright cemetery.

The three daughters (Mrs. C. Gardner and Mrs. A. Hilday, of Virden, Man., and Mrs. A. Gordon, of Pickering, Ont.) and four sons (Messrs. James, Stewart, George, Wainwright, John, Fillmore, Sask., and Andrew, Smiley, Sask.) were all in attendance at the funeral.

The pallbearers were Messrs J. Ford, F. Ford, R. Jones, A. Jury, E. L. McLeod and L. Dolphin, and the floral offerings included, wreaths from The Family, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Bouck, and sprays from Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. A. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. G. Larue and Rose Willow W.I.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Mr. George Turnbull (deceased) wish to thank their many friends and neighbors for the kindness shown during the illness of their Father, and the sympathy shown them in their recent bereavement; and also for the floral tributes and those who so kindly loaned their cars.

Mr. John Winter, who spent the winter at his old home in Luxembourg in Europe, with his parents, returned home last week to his farm in the Battleville district.

MOTHER OF EIGHT IS FIRST IN SENATE

AT SAME TIME THE QUEBEC LEGISLATURE REFUSES
WOMEN THE VOTE

OTTAWA—The policy of equal rights for women registered a notable advance when in the House of Commons last night the Privy Council having ruled that a woman is a "person" within the meaning of the British North America Act, Premier Mackenzie King named Mrs. Cairine O'Sullivan-Young to sit in the Senate in Canada. There was already a woman in the House of Commons—Miss Agnes MacPhail, a former school teacher, who represents an agricultural constituency.

But the feminist movement has had its rebuffs also. The Legislature of the province of Quebec formally refused women the right to practice law, although they may practice medicine, and a little later voted down a proposal that women be given the provincial franchise. They have voted for years in Federal elections. The Legislature divided 4 to 24 on the subject of votes for women, and advocates of extension of the franchise were encouraged by the fact that steady gains had been made since the question was introduced some years ago so that this year's adverse majority of twenty was smallest to be recorded in several divisions. No doubt another attempt will be made next year.

The first woman Senator in Canada is the wife of Mr. Norman Wilson, a former member of parliament, and a daughter of the late Hon. R. Mackay of Montreal, himself a Senator and director of numerous companies including the Canadian Pacific Railway. She is several times a millionaire, has eight children, and has never been aggressively active as a feminist. Mrs. Wilson is about forty years of age, dresses charmingly, and her first speech in the Senate was made in both French and English.

Mrs. Wilson is the youngest member of the Upper House. The oldest is Hon. George Cadmon D'Alessandro, who will be 103 if he lives till next September. The venerable gentleman who is descended from some of French Canada's most distinguished families, was well and active until a few months ago, but he has not been able to attend the present session of Parliament and it is doubtful if he will ever be seen again in the Capital.

CANADA PREFERS DIRECT WIRELESS

LONDON—The British post office is prepared to provide Canada with direct wireless telephone communication with Great Britain, Hon. H. B. Lees-Smith, postmaster-general, stated in the House of Commons, Wednesday afternoon. He said the Canadian government has indicated it preferred a direct service.

Mr. Lees-Smith said the Canadian government had been informed that if all the Dominion wanted was a good commercial service, the route via New York was preferable, as it had four alternative wave lengths. "But we added," said the postmaster-general, "that if Canada would like a direct service on Imperial or national grounds, we would be willing to provide it. We have received a supply which indicates they would like a direct service, and it will be provided by the post office."

WAINWRIGHT GOLF CLUB

A meeting of all members and devotees of the game will be held in the Wainwright Hotel on Thursday, April 3rd (tomorrow evening) at 8 p.m. Election of Officers and other important business. Be there!

HAPPY DANCANT FOR FAREWELL

FRIENDS OF MR & MRS G. L.
HUDSON ENTERTAIN AT NEW HOTEL

The new Wainwright Hotel was the scene of an event of unusual interest on Friday evening last when friends of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hudson gathered together in the spacious dining room to do honor to this esteemed couple who have been popular residents here for several years. In fact Mr. Hudson, though yet but a young man, was one of the pioneer settlers here while Mrs. Hudson (nee Beattie, nee of Vermilion) is a real Albertan too.

Mr. Hudson, a former Conservative member of Parliament, for this provincial riding is now engaged in organizing work for the British Empire Service League, in Alberta while Mrs. Hudson, who has been a noted worker in Alberta for several years and especially appreciated in Wainwright, has consented to appear on Chataqua during the coming summer where her talent will meet the demands of an increased clientele who have not been as privileged as the Wainwright district.

The function opened with progressive court waltz, followed by a lunch on which the staff of the new hostelry excelled. Proprietor Link had his arrangements in such command that the large assemblage were given excellent courteously trained service in a very tasty repast. The tables were plentifully decorated with juncos and narcissus.

Following the luncheon Mr. G. C. Siddall, in a beautifully prepared address full of sentiment of the occasion, presented Mrs. Hudson with an artistic and useful work set left the electrically equipped, while Mr. Hudson was made the recipient of a leather roll containing military brushes and other appurtenances.

Symbolical of the friendship of two entire assemblage was the unique garland thrown over the shoulders of the Wainwright "favorite" when Mademoiselle Washburn and Pawling made the presentation on behalf of the guests' many friends. The festoon which was made to encircle the couple comprised a necklet strand made up of the cards of the entire gathering, beautifully linked together with ribbon.

Mr. Hudson replying on behalf of his good lady and himself, expressed very feelingly their appreciation of the presentation and the symbol of friendship which it denoted, and voiced the sentiment of himself and wife in stating that while they might be absent for a time at least their affection would remain steadfastly to Wainwright.

The lady winner at cards was privileged the first dance with Mr. Hudson while the gentleman who was successful enjoyed the first number with Mrs. Hudson.

Dancing following luncheon, to the strains of the newly installed hotel radio-electric phonograph, and was enjoyed enthusiastically by all until nearly three a.m.

Miss Florence Tory is now on a short holiday with her parents.

McDONALD CHOSEN AS LIBERAL LEADER

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP POWER
ENDORSED BY BIG CONVENTION

J. W. McDonald, K.C. mayor of Macleod, vice-president of the provincial Liberal Association was elected leader of the Liberal party in the province at one of the largest conventions held in the history of the province in the city on Thursday. He defeated W. R. Howson prominent Edmonton barrister by a vote of 116 to 117 on the third ballot to determine the leader of the party to succeed Captain J. T. Shaw, K.C., who recently resigned.

The decision was in doubt until after the second ballot had been taken, eliminating H. J. Montgomery of Wetaskiwin, while the third ballot resulted in a clear majority for Mr. McDonald over his other opponents Mr. Howson and Captain J. C. Bowen of Edmonton. Both of these candidates commanded strong followings in the convention.

Following the declaration by the chairman of Mr. McDonald's election Mr. Howson was the first to extend his congratulations to the winner and his wishes for the continued success of the Liberal party.

Mr. McDonald, in accepting the leadership of the party predicted that the Liberal party would regain power in the province in the second if not in the first pending election. He expressed his thanks for the party represented at the convention and declared his intention of organizing a strong body of Liberals throughout the province to contest the election which is expected this coming summer.

Mrs. W. O'rowe is now home again from the hospital and feeling some what better from her recent indisposition.

Mrs. N. King is back from the city after visiting her husband in hospital there, who we are sorry to say is only making slow recovery.

NEW SOCIETY WILL EXPLORE DOMINION

CANADIAN GEOGRAPHICAL IS TO SPREAD KNOWLEDGE AND CULTURE

OTTAWA, Canada—The Canadian Geographical Society, one of the Dominion's newest associations, is organizing a membership campaign, being able to report a membership running into the thousands when the first annual meeting was held here. The Society was organized only a few months ago, and is intended to fill a place in Canada such as is occupied in the United Kingdom by the Royal Geographical Society and the Royal Scottish Geographical Society. The list of officers is headed by the Governor-General as honorary patron and includes foremost scientists, explorers and professional men of every province.

Dr. Robert Campbell of Ottawa, deputy Minister of Mines for Canada, is president.

Great need for an organization which would make Canada known more widely and more accurately not only to outsiders but to her own people has been experienced for years, and the Canadian Geographical Society began to open before the prospect and the explorer, Dr. Campbell has stated that though Canada is one of the largest countries of the world fully half of her area is imperfectly known and about one-quarter, especially in the Arctic lands, is completely unexplored. The Canadian Geographical Society is intended to collect and distribute accurate information of the Dominion's most remote parts, and as well as to make known the geographical, culture and resources of the settled areas.

The new society has received a most cordial welcome from scientific organizations throughout the Empire and encouraging public support in this country. It will publish an official journal under the direction of Lawrence J. Burpee, of Ottawa, secretary of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission along the general lines of the Royal Geographical Society.

Spring must surely be here now, for both gophers and crows have been seen during the past week in increasing numbers.

Mr. T. B. Gotobed with his brother-in-law Mr. T. F. Randalls of Toronto motored over from Innisfree on Sunday to show the guest our National park and newly built town.

ALBERTA ELECTION DATE IS EXPECTED

EDMONTON—Alberta will be in the thick of a provincial election, likely before July 1, in the opinion of leading members of the Liberal and Conservative parties in this city. Announcement of the date of an appeal to the electorate is expected shortly after the provincial house reassembles on April 2.

In the interval the U.F.A. members are to talk over the situation with their constituents and ascertain the feeling in rural parts of the country before a final decision is reached at a caucus which will be held here early next month.

NEW LAWS FOR TOURIST VISITORS

FOREIGN LICENSE PLATES GOOD FOR SIX MONTHS ON TOURIST CARS

Born-ide tourists "seeing Alberta" by automobile may now operate their cars for as long as six months without having to take out an Alberta license according to an important amendment to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act 1924 passed by the Alberta legislature Thursday afternoon.

The amendment provides that the tourist must register his car within 24 hours of arrival in the province with the Alberta Provincial Police but in the case of a United States car even this will not be necessary. Production of the customs permit when called upon to do so by any police officer being sufficient authority.

A "visitor's sticker" will be issued by the A.P.P. for cars registered by them and this sticker will be considered sufficient for the licensing and registering of the auto to which it is affixed.

Another important amendment to the act reduces the fine for driving without a driver's license from $1 to $5 instead of from $5 to $25. A heavy penalty is provided for the person driving an auto during the suspension or after the cancellation of the driving license or permit, that being $25 to $100 for a first offence and not more than 30 days imprisonment and for a subsequent offence $100 to $500 or a term not exceeding six months imprisonment.

Infraction of any of the provisions of the criminal code may also draw down cancellation or suspension of the driver's license.

Advice has been received from the Calgary Power Co., that a gang of men is being placed right away on the work of changing the line transformers and wiring in town so as to get a better balance on the load from the phase and thus obviate several disturbances which have been suffered with the light and power of late. The new big unit at the power plant is in process of installation also these days.

BIG ROADS SCHEME FOR SASKATCHEWAN

PROPOSAL TO EXPEND LARGE AMOUNT ON THREE DIFFERENT STANDARDS

REGINA—Announcement of proposed roads construction in Saskatchewan during the coming season, together with announcement of general policy of the new government's highways department, was made in the legislature Tuesday by Hon. A. C. Stewart, minister of highways, during the debate on the budget.

Mr. Stewart stated that this season's programme involved work on grading of trunk roads, graveling and surfacing these, and preparing colonization roads in newer districts of the province.

The total amount to be expended was $6,852,386, he said, divided as follows: On trunk highways, $2,963,585; gravel surfacing, $3,373,801; sundry grading, $395,000; colonization roads, $120,000.

The government's policy calls for three standards of road construction, namely: main arterial roads, standard construction roads, and colonization roads.

Mr. M. Kemp and his wife are here for a few days from Biggar to stay with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kemp.

Mr. Frank Turley, manager of the Imperial Oil Co. has announced an expansion programme of a quarter million dollars in North Alberta this year. It is to be hoped that Wainwright will share in this big programme.

WAINWELLS GOES TO PENINSULAR

ONALTO WILL SOON RESUME
WORK FOR SEASON
ON NO. 1 WELL

(By W. A. Knowles)

Mr. R. E. Williams, Managing Director of Fabyan Petroleum, returned from Vancouver on Monday and announces that work will be almost immediately renewed on No. 1 well with a view to cleaning out and deepening it. Following this, work will be carried on under No. 3 derrick. Negotiations are being carried on by more than one concern for a portion of the large acreage held by Fabyan Petroleum and these are expected to be closed with at least one large concern shortly. Work will be of advantage to the development of Fabyan acreage.

As intimated in last week's paper that three of the larger Turner Valley concerns intended to develop acreage west of here, through Vancouver sources, this has been practically confirmed, with the addition that the Shell was also mentioned as entertaining intentions of drilling this Summer in the Wainwright field, presumably West of town.

Behavon No. 2 well, owing to the fact that the highway is drying up nicely to permit of hauling crude oil will likely renew operations with Blair & Stevens contract drilling equipment within the next few days. This well is now down 2175 feet, so that it is expected that not a great distance remains to enter the producing area, on this location.

John L. Daugherty, of Onalito Oil Ltd. has completed arrangements for the financing of his operations here and is expected to leave Montreal within the next three or four days for the Wainwright field when work will be resumed on Onalito No. 1 well which is down 1925 feet in very satisfactory formation having passed through prolific gas as more than one depth en route to their present stand.

Associated Refineries which had their storage capacity utilized to its full extent are now very busy delivering their commodities, especially distillate and fuel oil to the many trucks calling for these products. As the highways become more passable and the tractor season makes demands the output is being rapidly called for. This plant is nicely equipped and is situated four miles north of town. Many inquiries are being received for the refinery's products from distant areas showing that the output is in demand. This week the company shipped a carload to Dodsland and Hoozier, Sask.

It is hoped that several more producing wells will be added to the present number in the Wainwright field, this Summer so that the capacity of both Wainwell and Associated Refineries will have to be increased to handle it, and from the interest being evidenced by new concerns it is indicated that considerable activity will be present in development work in this field, as the demand for this grade and quality of crude oil in quantity is well known.

Word has been received that Sena Oil & Gas Co. intend to inaugurate activity very shortly on their acreage East of town.

Penitular Petroleum, which has had considerable difficulty with cave ins from quicksand and a broken casing shoe, have resumed drilling again below the 200 foot level and expect to make good headway from now on. They also intend to renew activity on Wainwell property, lately taken over by them on a basis of ten Wainwell shares for one Penitular.

LOCAL NOTES

Mr. Fred Spence, who was operated on last week for an injury to his head is now feeling much better and is around again.

After quite a long siege of illness and stay in hospital Mr. Herb Reeves has now recovered and left that institution last week end.

Mr. J. Hedlund of Heath, is in the hospital suffering from an attack of asthma and heart trouble.

Another carload of good horses left for Quebec last week. This has developed into quite a big business at this point several carloads having been sent East during the past winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stafford are now settled in their new home, the Albert Lumsden house on Sixth avenue east.

The Brookdale boys were down on Kimble's Pond clearing the snow off the ice in preparation for the big skating carnival they had arranged for the following Saturday night. The ice, which covered half an acre, was hard and smooth under the layer of snow that had fallen during the previous night and the boys were looking forward to having some good sport with their skates.

"What's Bert doing today?" asked Gordon Duncanson, a youth of fifteen. "I don't know," replied Stan King. "I came through their place but he had already left, his mother said. I don't know why he isn't here."

"Here he comes now, fellows," Alvin Briggs called.

His two companions looked around and saw Bert Clifton, a youth of fifteen, coming through their place but he had already left, his mother said. I don't know why he isn't here."

"What's up, Bert?" asked Gordon Duncanson, a youth of fifteen. "I don't know," replied Stan King. "I came through their place but he had already left, his mother said. I don't know why he isn't here."

change ours this late in the day. Say we go over there tonight fellows and hit up those guys about it," suggested Alvin. "This must be one of Dunc's Hawk's schemes; I don't know anyone else around Woodford who could think of trying a stunt like that."

"No, most of them are pretty decent," Bert agreed. "Perhaps if we got right after them and made them listen to reason, they might call off their game or whatever they have on that night."

"Not much chance," objected Alvin. "They hired the ice just to spoil our show and I don't see them changing their plans just to please us."

"We'll go over and see what we can do anyway," Gordon thrust his shovel into the snow. "Let's get this job finished."

"What's the use of us working?" demanded Alvin. "Let Woodford clean their own ice."

"Oh, we'll be using it to, and perhaps we will have it for Saturday night after all."

"Yah. And perhaps the man in the moon will be wearing green pajamas that night with yellow stripes."

"That evening after supper Gordon and Bert drove over to Woodford in the cutter. They found Dunc Hawkes and Gus Fred, two of the leading hockey players, at the village store and Gordon tackled them at once.

"Was it you fellows who rented Kimble's Pond for Saturday night?" demanded Alvin. "Let Woodford clean their own ice."

the game that night and spoiling the carnival, I intended, going myself. "We have been trying to get Dunc to call it off but he won't do it."

"We all decided to play Saturday night," Dunc defended himself. "Waterloo is coming and we can't back out now."

Gus supported him and Nick was at a loss what to say.

"Well, I tell you fellows," Gordon began, "I can only repeat what I said before—meet us tomorrow and let us fight out who is to have the ice Saturday night; we'll abide by the decision and say no more about it."

"That's fair enough," replied Nick. "We'll take you on."

Dunc and Gus protested again, but Nick reminded them that they were not the only ones who had any say in the matter and he announced his intention to put the matter up to other players.

"Now look here Nick Ellis," blustered Dunc, "who is the captain of this hockey team, you or me?"

"You might be the captain, but I don't give you the right to run the whole show," Nick went on down street and Dunc hurried after him to forestall, if possible, any change of the programme he had originated and was determined to carry through.

The two Brookdale boys wandered around restlessly.

"Nick's a real sport, isn't he?" Gordon remarked.

"Yes, I've always liked him, but do you think you really have a chance of winning if we play them tomorrow night?"

"Certainly, we've got to win."

Presently they saw Nick coming back and they hurried to meet him.

"Well, the fellows seem quite bent on having that game with Waterloo but they have agreed to play you for the ice tomorrow night, Dunc and Gus are kicking but we are going through with it just the same."

"That's great. Thanks Nick, we won't forget your help."

The two friends fell silent on the way home. The other boys would be disappointed because Woodford refused to give up the ice, however, they still had a chance of getting it if they could defeat the Woodford Six for once.

"We've just got to win," Gordon declared as he dropped Bert at his gate so the rest of the fellows they must not think of anything else. We had them on the run last time and we might have won if the game had lasted a little longer. They are a tough bunch but they're not as long-winded as we are; they smoke too many cigarettes. We must try to keep them on the jump all the time, and when they are tired we will sail in and score."

The other members of the Brookdale hockey scheme heard of the arrangement with mixed feelings. They had been astounded and enraged at what they considered Woodford's underhandness in getting the ice and now fell back on the coming contest as a possible means of giving their rivals the beating they deserved.

And so, when the two teams lined up Friday evening, the Brookdale boys were all keyed-up to win, while the visiting Six with the reluctant Dunc Hawkes at their head, were clearly on the defensive. The presence of a senior member of the Waterloo Rovers as umpire, assured a fair game. He touched off the puck and the game was on.

From the very outset the first period was a fast-moving series of attacks and counter-attacks, of bold dashes and hard hitting, of nifty tactics and narrow escapes. The small but highly appreciative group of spectators howled their approval and encouraged their favorites. Fighting desperately, Woodford succeeded in keeping the puck down on the Brookdale ice during most of the first period but the home team knocked effectively every attempt to score and the period ended without a count on either side.

After a brief respite they were at it again, stronger than before, and this period was characterized by more footwork and longer shots. Brookdale carried the fight towards their opponents' goal and only Nick's excellent stick work kept them from scoring. The struggling visitors were feeling the effects of the fast playing and their opponents were not much better off, but they continued their rapid onslaughts and smashing checks and the second period ended with the whole twelve players battling around the Woodford goal. This rest was more welcome and the visitors gathered to discuss the situation in a worried looking group.

The Brookdale boys, on the other hand were becoming more and more confident of victory and they entered the final period with eagerness. They carried the puck to the Woodford ice and kept it there, although their rivals attempted, as shown by their wild shooting and futile rushes to keep the puck away from their goal. Most of the Woodford village boys were badly winded, but the dogged farm lads of Brookdale kept slugging away and were not idle for a moment. The Woodford blood was up however and they fought with unflagging energy. They couldn't see the net, but Brookdale and Waterloo could. Brookdale was absolutely no need for having

For Wainwright Merchants Only

Being one of a series of chats with Wainwright businessmen in which they are told how to increase their volume of sales.

There's money in Wainwright. There are people here aptly to spend it. There's good business for you—if you, the merchants of Wainwright, join The Star in keeping Wainwright's business in Wainwright.

It all boils down to the very important thought that the nearby, bigger towns and the mail order houses are ALWAYS trying to attract trade from the smaller communities.

Always trying! Very often succeeding! And, sad but all too true, to the detriment of you, the merchants of Wainwright and the merchants of all other small towns.

What to do about it is a problem you must help solve, if you are to prosper. A mighty vital problem it is, too, as you well know.

Just the same we can keep Wainwright's money in Wainwright. And the folk of Wainwright can be brought around to the habit of buying in Wainwright almost exclusively. And you can make both conditions possible.

The manufacturer's advertising in Wainwright's home newspaper will help you sell more of your merchandise to more and to the greatest number of Wainwright's people.

This advertising support will keep Wainwright's money in Wainwright. It will mean good business for you—and more of it.

This newspaper has joined with the town newspapers all over the country in a nation-wide campaign to convince national advertisers that they can best assist small town merchants by advertising in the local home town newspapers of the small town merchants.

THE EXAMINER'S WEEKLY REVIEW OF PROV. MARKETS

CATTLE

BEEF—Beef steers of all weights are active at Calgary, while prices are about steady. The choice heavy and light steers are selling this week at from $9.75 to $10; good from $9.25 to $9.75; medium $8.50 to $9.25. Common down to $7. Choice heifers brought from $8.50 to $9, with good at $9.75 to $10. Choice cows from $7.25 to $7.50; good $6.75 to $7.25; medium from $5.50 to $6.50; common $4.50 to $5.50; canners down to $3. Butcher bulls sold up to $9; common from $5 to $5.25, and canners from $3.75 up. Choice veal calves were more plentiful and prices easier, with $12 to $14 for the bulk; common kinds from $7 to $9. STOCKER-FEEDERS—The movement is light in this division with feeder steers bringing $7.75 to $8, if quality is good. Stocker steers from $6.50 to $7.25. Stock heifers $6 to $6.50. Stock cows $5.25 to $5.75.

HOGS

Edmonton hogs made $11.50 for the hams this week, with scabs at 50¢ premium per cwt. on fed and watered basis.

SHEEP

Buyers at Edmonton have adopted an indifferent attitude on the sheep market this week. Prices are steady with lambs from $9 to $10; yearlings $7.50 to $8.50 and ewes from $5 to $7.

GRAIN

During the first part of the season at Winnipeg on Wednesday, the market eased off, only to come up against substantial buying orders by exporters and continental accounts. The latter portion of the session saw the market largely confined to the Winnipeg traders but an advance of over 1¢ was recorded at the close.

BUTTERFAT—LUTTER—MILK—Some creameries are still paying advanced prices, on basis of 3¢ on all grades. Prices are holding steady and are as follows: Special grade, 36¢/lb; first, 34¢/lb; second grade, 31¢/lb. CHEESE—BUTTER—Alberta prices this week are steady, as follows: No. 1 cartons 29¢; No. 2 points 37¢. Slight surplus is noticeable in province. DAIRY BUTTER—This market is unchanged. Demand only moderate. MILK—Prices are unchanged, supply showing reasonable increase.

POULTRY—EGGS—POULTRY—Crates arriving on market now contain very few really choice birds. Retail demand slow with storage stocks taking care of all trade being worked. EGGS—Heavy receipts arriving on market lately. Demand only moderate. East can buyers apparently not interested. Lower prices may increase home consumption and take care of congestion. This week's quotations are as follows: Extras 22¢, firsts 20¢, and seconds 18¢.

GREENFIELD—OATS—HAY—Market quiet with unchanged prices. Milder weather recently is causing interest among buyers to slacken. Hauling conditions are fair and offerings at country points are on the increase. Upland hay worth $12 to $13 shipping points with timothy from $18 to $19 per ton. Calgary loose hay market steady and light receipts giving firmness to tone. Feed oats down to 50¢.

Canadian farmers are finding a new opportunity in the cultivation of the soybean. During 1929 soybean oil and other products to a value of nearly $2,000,000 were imported by Canadian industries. Experimental work conducted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture shows that eighteen varieties can be successfully cultivated in Canada. It grows under essentially the same conditions as corn, and generally speaking can be grown anywhere corn grows, and with the same results.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By

Edson R. Waite
Shawnee, Oklahoma

That voters should always inquire about the ability and character of every candidate for public office. Too much care cannot be taken in their selection.

Public officials should be diplomatic, fair just, impartial, cool-headed even-tempered and clear thinkers. Public officials should be men of executive ability, with the inclination to do what is right and have the nerve to do it.

Public officials should believe in efficient and economical government based on progress and business principles.

Public officials should take into consideration the safety, protection and care of the citizen during and prosperity of the citizen as a whole.

Public officials should bear in mind that good government does not mean a cheap government or an extravagant one; it should be one with a maximum of service at the lowest cost, consistent with good service. With all these qualifications, they will only be able to please part of the people part of the time.

"Quack's" Cure-All Fails
The "quack" finds a new field of operation in connection with the control of stem rust in wheat. Many preparations are now advertised for the disinfection of the soil to prevent rust. The Rust Research experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture find that the organism which produces rust does not develop in the soil, but in the dissection of the soil cannot destroy the organism. They also point out that rusted wheat kernels when sown do not develop into rusted wheat plants; and for this reason seed treatments are useless as a means of control of rust.

FIGHTING IT OUT

So the struggle continued on toward the end of the period with both sides striving to gain the advantage.
There were only three minutes to go, neither side was willing to play overtime, so the issue must be settled one way or the other, but both sides were determined on having it settled in their own favor and thus the battle raged fiercer and fiercer. The crowd night air was resounding with the whack of sticks against the puck and the chattering of skates on the ice. In the goal, Nick had his stick spread out in a defensive attitude; the puck was being kicked back and forth to and fro, while the home team struggled to get possession of it. Finally Bert pulled it out from between Gus's feet and passed it to Alvin on the right. Alvin eluded Dunc's furious charge and passed to Gordon who wheeled backward and nudged for an open shot at the goal.
Gordon passed to Bert to avoid the combined rush of the Woodford team, and Bert on the extreme right raised his stick and struck viciously toward the goal. There was an instant's pause as the puck struck the goal post and toward the left side of the goal; Nick caught it with the end of his stick and there arose a hopeless grin from the Brookdale fans as a yell, which turned into a shout of victory. The puck had been buried with such force that it had bounced over the goalpost stick into the goal behind the line. And a second later, while the players were staring in dazed disbelief the umpire shouted, "Time! Brookdale wins!"
Then the home team and their supporters went wild.
"Hurrah! What's the matter with Brookdale!"
"Who says we can't play hockey?" demanded Stan King dancing with his skates on.
"Who says we can't have a carnival tomorrow night?" cried Gordon triumphantly.

Well, it was over. The impossible had been accomplished and Woodford was defeated at last. There was much cheering, ice-pounding, laughter, and more subdued, "Can't do it again," declaration from the Woodford fans, as the players and their supporters trooped across the road to the Briggs farm and their waiting sleighs.
"Don't forget the show tomorrow night fellows," called Gordon as the light sleigh containing the Woodford Six started off.
"Well, be here," replied Nick Ellis, waving his cap genially.
"And so, the Brookdale boys had their carnival after all. It was a splendid night, there was a large attendance and something doing every minute. Everyone had a good time and the boys were very much pleased with the success of their first ice carnival—a success which was all the more gratifying because they had to fight to put it over.

WHAT WE

GET OUT OF LIFE!

Among the many publications which come regularly to the writer's desk is a little monthly magazine called "The Value World," published as the house organ of a great manufacturing company having offices, branches, warehouses and factories all over the world, including every Canadian Province, except Prince Edward Island. One of the regular features in this magazine is information from an Old Fogey's Inglebrook, and consists of informal, personal chats of a most interesting, informative, and inspirational character. They are thought-provoking, while at the same time bringing comfort to the reader. They are a spur to one's ambition, a ray of sunshine on a gloomy day, an incentive to be up and doing, and to endeavor to find and appreciate true values in life.

Thoroughly enjoying "Old Fogey"
as we do, we are this week passing on through the medium of this column one of the "gems" appearing in a recent issue. We quote it in full as it appeared under the heading,
"One Recipe For Happiness."

A short story I was reading recently pictured a woman who had just lost her husband through an accident. One of her confiding friends said: "How sad he had to go so soon!"
To which the widow replied: "I am thankful for having had him so long."
I can see in this one recipe for happiness; one way toward the possession of a tranquil and grateful soul. Instead of letting sadness overwhelm her, she turned her sadness into a blessing. "How sad he had to go so soon," she said. "I was thankful because it had been delayed so long. She could find that life had been better to her than it might have been, and that gratefulness for this was much better than sadness over the reflection that it might have given her more."

Life brings us much or little, largely as we take it. We get much or little out of life chiefly through our point of view as to what is much and what is little. It may seem little to us that we awakened this morning ready for another day of activity, or it may seem much that another day with its possibilities is before us. It is quite within ourselves to say "Another day in which anything may happen; another day of opportunity;
another day to be alive and useful and helpful, and to do a bit more glimmering; another day to grow in gentleness; another day to add knowledge, to spread cheerfulness, to develop character, to stretch out the helping hand to hold up the valiant head to length on the forward stride. Another day to hope and to love and to add to our store of happiness."

It's all in the point of view. How infinitely better it is to be thankful that life has been given to us and is giving us so much, than to be sad because we cannot have more. To say: "Good night friend, I am glad to have had you so long," rather than
"I am sorry to have you go so soon."
It was the writer's first intention to offer some comment of his own on the above, but we will leave it to complete in itself. We therefore merely say to you: Read it again; clip it out for future reading on some day when you are inclined to feel that life is hard, or monotonous, and unsatisfying, and yielding you so little. Remember it is chiefly your own point of view of what is much and what is little. You can make it much if you will.

duce a new home in case your burn-

As I see the situation at the present time, and the only thing that will get the country back to normal is to put the bank managers on the farm and the farmers in the bank.

Five times out of ten when a farmer goes to try to two or three hundred dollars for a short term, no matter what his assets may be the manager will tell him how to farm! What he should do and what he shouldn't do.
Tell him the farmer is the backbone of the country; and lastly, that he can't get the money! That's how they strengthen the "backbone!" A farmer would need to be worth about fifty thousand to get five hundred dollars.
I would like to see more men quantity as bank managers, then we would have a lot of good farmers here.
Hoping the lawmakers will figure out some way whereby a farmer can get a short term loan to his farm, and a pinch instead of quite so much trouble on raising chickens and when to sell his wheat!

FLU IS SPREAD BY

DIRECT CONTACT

Ottawa - Probably the only method of spreading human influenza is passage of the germ from one person to another, and avoidance of the disease is based on preventing contacts with sufferers, according to a statement made public by the Public Health Service.

In the statement which was issued it reads: We do not know exactly what causes epidemic influenza, but we are at least sure that it is not due, as our forefathers used to suppose, to volcanic eruptions or earthquakes or to poisonous gases emitted from the stars. There is every reason to believe that influenza is a typical infectious disease caused by a living, although yet undiscovered, germ or microbe.

There is no evidence that the germ
is ever conveyed by drinking water or by milk, or that it can be blown about in dust for a period of time.
Neither is there any evidence that biting insects transmit influenza in the way that they are known to transmit such diseases as malaria or the tubercle plague. Although domestic animals such as horses, suffer from influenza, there is no evidence that these diseases are caused by different microbes and have nothing to do with the human infection.

All that is known about human influenza supports the view that the germ is passed more or less directly from one human being to another.
Probably this is the only mode of transmission. Small particles of mucus or saliva may be dislodged from the nose or throat in the act of sneezing, coughing, loud talking or laughing and they may contain the germ of influenza. It is a wise precaution therefore, to prevent too close contact with influenza patients, just as it is well to avoid contact with persons who have colds.

Various vaccines, serums, prepared medicines and drugs and even alcoholic beverages are sometimes used as preventatives against influenza. There is no evidence that any of them are of value in warding off the infection. At the first signs of illness the patient should be as completely isolated as possible. Every individual should exercise due precaution to protect himself and to avoid transmitting it to others, should he contract the disease.

NEW FEATURE ADDED TO RADIO ON TRAINS

MONTREAL - With the completion of twelve new observation lounge cars, at present under construction for the Canadian National Railways this system which is the pioneer road in the provision of radio service on passenger trains, will introduce another new feature in radio train equipment. The new cars will be "train-lined" by which means radio programmes received on sets installed in these new cars will be received also in compartment cars operating on the same train. The new observation-lounge cars in course of construction will have built-in A. C. radio and gramophone equipment and in the compartment cars with which they will be operated, provision has been made for an outlet phone circuit from the radio-gramophone which will be entirely independent of the lounge-car circuit. Twenty-two jack outlets for handsets will be provided in the compartment cars, and thirty-six in the lounge cars. This installation will require the use of only one radio set to serve both cars. In the compartment cars provision is made for two handsets in each compartment, or chambrete and three handsets in each drawing room. This will be the first installation of "train lining" on passenger trains operated by any railway, and the installation is being followed with great interest by other railways which have installed radio on their trains as a result of the developments worked out by the Canadian National which is the pioneer railway in this respect.

The development of radio on trains has been followed with keen interest by various railroads since the Canadian National made this a feature of their service some years ago. Railways in the United States as well as in France and England are among the companies which have followed radio developments and have been supplied with blueprint information and engineering data based on the Canadian National Railway experience before deciding upon their installations.

THE SHORT YEARS

To the boy of ten writing for Christmas to return the year seems a century.
He looks back to his last birthday
as an old man looks back to his youth.
The few weeks that compose the last term of school seem each a month long.
To the child, time is without limit.
Always he is looking forward to some event that will be different from the daily humdrum of his life.
And always he worries of waiting for twenty one's time begins to strike a little faster pace. The year ends are not quite so far apart.
At forty, a month slips by as a week did once.

What happened six months ago might have been yesterday. Duties that are neglected on the theory that they do not need to be done right away are soon at hand, before one is ready to undertake them.
And so the years shorten as life goes on, until at fifty you will be astonished to find that Easter is at hand almost as soon as New Year's day is gone.

Most people accomplish their most important work in these short years because time seemed so abundant in the longer years that little more than a quarter of it was used effectively.

Old age is on the horizon like a cloud. Death is just behind it.
There is still much to do, and too often the vitality and power to do it have been used up in youth or in middle age.

If the young man and the young woman would listen to those who have gone before them they would so spend time when it seems unlimited that these short years could also be "merry ones."

The Creator has been really generous with time.

There is enough of it for the thinking people to build for the future.
But time cannot be halted or call of back to use over again - Ex

Just because a man doesn't get to the front doesn't necessarily prove that he is a back number.

the mountains, the woods, the lake—travel. Escorted tours that relieve the traveller of all the irksome responsibility of details become more and more popular, according to C. W. Johnston, General Passenger Traffic Manager, Canadian National Railways, who was discussing the system's plans for the coming summer.

Seven personally-conducted all-expense tours have already been arranged, he stated and they will take in all parts of Canada.

Two will explore the Maritimes; four will cross Canada from either Montreal or Toronto, and one from Winnipeg.

The first to get under way will be the Pitman Maritime tour, which will leave Montreal on June 27th. Occupying 17 days, the itinerary will take in Quebec, Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Montmorency Falls, as well as all the principal cities and towns of the province by the Atlantic. There will be a steamer trip through the Bras d'Or Lakes to Cape Breton, a motor trip of 150 miles through the head of Evangeline, and another hundred miles through Prince Edward Island.

One of the most important tours of the summer will be that organized under the auspices of "The New Outlook" which will leave Toronto June 28th and will cover 5,000 miles by rail, 1,850 miles by steamer and 350 miles by automobile. Both railways will be used and among the spots to be visited will be Jasper National Park, The "Pilgrims" will travel between Vancouver and Prince Rupert by Canadian National steamer and will also visit the Peace River Country.

The ninth annual personally conducted tour of the Canadian National System will leave Winnipeg on July 2nd, crossing the prairies to the Pacific Coast and including the boat trip along the "Inside Passage."

On July 10 and July 16th respectively the Adams and Pitman Across Canada tours will leave Montreal, on the way to Minaki, Jasper National Park, Wainwright and the Pacific Coast. The first will be for 24 days and the second 25. Western Canada will also be visited by the Kerr-Royce sixth annual tour, which is due to leave Toronto on July 9th. All the salient features of the Maritimes will come before those who become members of the Adams Maritime tour leaving Toronto on August 5th and Montreal, August 7th.

CHURCHILL LINE NOT COMPLETE

REPORT OF IMMEDIATE TRAIN SERVICE TO CHURCHILL DENIED BY C.N.R.

WINNIPEG—The report which has gained newspaper circulation that the Canadian National Railways will inaugurate regular passenger and freight service between The Pas and Churchill in April is incorrect according to A. A. Tisdale, General Manager, Western Region, Canadian National Railways. The report which emanated from The Pas apparently found its beginning in the intention of the company to move to Churchill in the near future certain supplies which are required by the Government for the continuation of dock and elevator facilities at Churchill this summer. The last ninety miles of the line to Churchill has received only the first lift of ballast and it will have to be given a second lift before it can be turned over by the construction to the operating department for regular service. Ballast work can only be done when the weather moderates and it is not expected that the line will be ready for the opening of passenger trains until well on into the summer and no scheduled passenger or freight service is under contemplation by the company at the present time beyond Mile 326.

Commenting on the wheat situation Dr. Christie said: "If the wheat pool gets 25 cents more per bushel they will be able to leave with the farmer the $1 per bushel already paid. The pool has plenty of time to win its fight and I believe all will be well in the near future."

SUGGESTIONS FOR CAR OWNERS

Millions of dollars could be saved annually by the automobile-owning public through a more strict observance of the factors that control the gasoline mileage offered by the average automobile. It is revealed in a survey on fuel economy recently completed by a well known company.

A gain of from two to five miles on the gallon of gas could be affected, on the average, it was shown, if the motorist paid strict attention to the elements that govern fuel consumption. The majority of items to be watched are rather obvious to the average automobile owner, but through an inadequate appreciation of their importance are commonly overlooked.

1. When standing or waiting for the light to change don't race your motor.
2. When you are to make a stop of more than a minute turn off your motor.
3. Don't drive at excessive speeds unless the occasion demands. High speed travelling burns more gas.
4. Remember that the faster you drive the more gas you consume. So when you find that you are about out of gas and are heading for a gas station take it slowly and your chances for negotiating the distance will be greater.
5. When starting watch the choke. Don't drive with the choke out for a moment more than necessary.
6. Be sure that your brakes are not dragging. This cuts down your mileage. Get your brakes inspected frequently.
7. Have your valves ground when they need it.
8. See that the idling adjustment on your carburetor is set at the proper point so that the mixture is not too rich. If it is not at the proper point it gives you inefficient idling performance and wastes gas.
9. Don't fill your gas tank full to the cap; some will escape through the vent in the cap.
10. Don't ride the clutch.
11. Watch the gas line for leaks at joints. Check it periodically to see that fittings are tight.
12. Be sure that spark is in fully advanced position.
13. Avoid excessive use of brakes in traffic.

Observance of these suggestions the survey points, will save money for the motorist, add considerable mileage to your driving, and reduce the number of necessary stops at the gasoline station.

City dwellers who insist upon their tiny home gardens, in which they find so much exercise and such great pleasure, will find this little hint of great value.

Invest a few cents for seed at the store around the corner, a few cents more for this protective paper, and see if you cannot be among the first to thrust thumbs in veg. and an-

A Mystery Of The Nova Scotian Shore

BY J. C. MACKAY

"Who was he?"
"What was the secret which held him along through forty-seven long monotonous years on the shore of St. Mary's Bay, Nova Scotia?"
The mystery will probably never be solved now, yet for sixty-seven years these questions have at frequent intervals engrossed the attention, not only of the inhabitants of Digby Neck—on the shore of which he was found—but also of those living on the mainland amongst whom the mystery man spent almost five decades.

It was in the summer of 1861 that a large ship was seen skirting the long strip of land called Digby Neck which lies between the Bay of Fundy and St. Mary's Bay.

The fishermen were attracted by her appearance for she looked unlike any vessel to which they were accustomed. Some thought her a man-of-war, others a pirate ship. Perhaps the ship might have been forgotten had not a startling discovery been made early the next morning.

A man by the name of Albright, coming down the shore to collect rock wood found, not very far above the high tide mark, the huddled up form of a man. Both legs had been cramped just above the knees. Beside him on the sand was a jug of water, and a loaf of coarse black bread.

For a long distance along Digby Neck, particularly on the Fundy side, the shore is precipitous and rocky, but at Sandy Cove where the stranger was found there is a beautiful sandy beach, semicircular in shape, shut in on both sides by towering cliffs.

The man was evidently suffering intensely from cold and exposure. His legs gave evidence of having been recently amputated for they were still sore and bleeding though rather skillfully bandaged.

Carried by kindly hands to Mr. Gindway's home he was wrapped in blankets and given warm drinks. When conscious, in answer to the questions as to his name, and the cause of his abandonment, no answer could be obtained but a word which sounded like "Jerome." It was there fore by the name of Jerome he came to be known. As he made no further attempt to speak and nothing could be learned of his nationality, it was decided to send him to Annapolis where, amongst the Acadians on the French shore—mainland—someone might be found who could speak his language and the mystery of his strange casting away might be solved.

As his complexion was dark it was thought that he might be an Italian and as John Nicolas, a Corsican by birth but nicknamed "The Russian" spoke not only Italian but several other European languages quite fluently it was decided to send him there.

John Nicolas himself had had thrilling adventures having fought in the Crimean war. Escaping from a prison, he had fought a hard fight against the dispersed Acadians "on the French shore." Perhaps it was because a kindred feeling makes us wondrous kind, that John Nicolas received him cordially and, though not a man of means, he and his family cared for the castaway till the case having been brought to Nova Scotia government, he was thenceforth paid two dollars a week for the Mystery Man's keep.

John Nicolas tried all his ingenuity on his guest in vain. He would not speak; that he did understand both French and Italian was certain and that he lived in deadly fear of some one or something was equally certain.

Only three or four times in all his forty-seven years, on "the French Shore" was any information obtained from him. Each occasion was when he was off guard and left him in a pitiful panic of fear for weeks. On one occasion suddenly asked where he came from he answered immediately "Trieste." On another, "What ship brought him to the shore of Fundy?" his answer was "Colombo."

Jerome's legs took a long time to heal. Then he learned to walk with a cane, but he never went anywhere, shunning company. He sat on the kitchen floor, his head bowed his hands folded.

Jerome remained seven years at Meteghan, then John Nicolas having lost his wife, the castaway was taken to L. Alphonse (Chetouan) to board with Mrs. Didier Comeau.

The common belief in the neighborhood was that Jerome was both deaf and dumb but the children of the household told a different story. It was watched their play with evident interest and occasionally spoke to them. When absolutely certain that no grown-up person was within hearing distance, pressed by the children as to why he should not speak to the grown-ups his reply was always a red shake of his head and

"No, No!" In answer to their questions as to why his legs had been cut off he answered, "Chains" and then "saved off on a table."

It is proved conclusively on one occasion. Visitors called to see the castaway, but Jerome refused to leave his room. Francois Comeau, coaxed, Jerome was obstinate. When Francois placed his hands on his shoulder, Jerome cried out angrily in perfect English, "T'm bi you!" However, except when the word "foran" (pirate) was mentioned, then it was days before his anger and excitement would cool.

He would stand for hours on his four stumps of legs gazing through the window towards St. Mary's Bay at the ships passing and repassing when he thought himself alone.

As to his status in society, there was a wide difference of opinion. Some of his visitors thought him intelligent and refined looking others the reverse. As to appearance, his head was large and well formed, his eyes dark and large. He wore a pointed beard and moustache and his fingers were long and slender.

The Government occasionally published a short account of the castaway, hoping to elicit information from some quarter. On one occasion a letter was received from two sisters in New York by the name of Mahoney, who thought Jerome might afterward prove to be their long lost brother.

As Mr. Comeau and his brother Francois, purpose going to New York to work, they decided to call on the sisters. From Miss Mahoney they learned that they had a brother Jerome, who had run away three times from his home before eleven years of age. The fourth time he disappeared completely and though the father had searched all his life and spent money lavishly, his son had never been found. The younger brother was left in total ignorance of his elder brother's unceremonious leaving-taking and was filled with surprise to learn of his existence.

The Mahoney sisters were of the opinion that the castaway was their brother, as the age when he left home and his apparent age—twenty-five—when found would tally satisfactorily. But the mystery of his life which was evidently spent in foreign lands on the high seas, the amputation of his limbs, and his abandonment on the Nova Scotia coast are puzzles which have never been solved.

It may seem queer that enquiries were not instituted sooner particularly as to the strange vessel, which Jerome acknowledged as the Colombo but in the early sixties Digby Neck was far from the madding crowd, though today there are several comfortable boarding houses near where the castaway was found.

The last twenty-five years of Jerome's life were spent at the home of Mrs. Didier Comeau. Here he relapsed into absolute silence, not one word having been uttered by him as far as is known.

Not long before his death, which occurred in 1908, Mrs. Doucet, daughter of John Nicolas, called to see him. She had played about him as a little child. She was one of the few children to whom he had spoken and she had very kindly memories of him. As she entered the room he raised his eyes to look at her and then dropped them again. To her repeated appeals for him to speak to her, he leaned forward as though anxious to comply, making several supreme efforts to articulate, but evidently the vocal chords, long in disuse refused to function, and the murmur she construed into "Je ne peux pas" and she turned sadly away.

The idea was held by those who knew him best that he held in his possession a secret which it was feared he might divulge, hence his casting away. His admittance that his legs had been injured by chains in some way confirms this theory. That some terrible secret was in his keeping seems reasonable to suppose how otherwise can the silence of all most half a century be accounted for? That circumstance troubled him and that he was doing penance for past sins was construed from the fact that he held his hands on a red-hot stove on one or two occasions and he seldom was known to smile. Whatever the sins of his youth were he had ample time to review and repent of them in that pathetic silence of forty-seven years spent with the kindly Acadians on "the French shore Nova Scotia."

After opening the vacuum-packed coffee can, unwind the key and put it in the dresser drawer. One of these times when a can of coffee comes minus the key you will be grateful that you have an extra one.

Bright and Shining

There is nothing prettier than the kitchen pantry thoroughly equipped with all the necessary kitchen articles in bright, shiny aluminum. However, it is not much credit to the woman who has aluminum vessels and allows them to become tarnished and blackened.

So You Know Their Diet

Impress upon your children to keep their own school lunch and not swap with other children. You have carefully planned the lunch and know the nourishment they will receive and if they start to change about you will never know just what they have had to eat.

A Little Less Work

When melted shortening is used in baking it is a good idea to melt it in the pan in which you expect to bake. It saves one more article to be washed and helps grease your pan in the bargain.

Early Tomatoes

The skins of early tomatoes can be removed easily by rubbing them over with the back of a silver knife. You will be surprised to see how quickly the skins separate from the meat of the vegetable.

A Kitchen Brightener

If the top of your kitchen table is of wood, cover it with white oilcloth, stretch tightly and tack on the underneath side. You will be surprised how much cleaner and brighter the kitchen will seem.

Half a Lemon

When only half a lemon is required in a recipe, don't throw out the other half; they are too expensive. Place it on a dish, cut side down and put it in the refrigerator. It will keep quite a while in this manner.

Bowser's Drinking Water

Neglected drinking water utensils are said by veterinarians to be the cause of many ailments of household pets. A shallow earthenware dish can easily be soiled each day, cannot rust and its smooth surface will not harbor germs.

Is It the Tooth Paste

Why is it the bathroom tumbler gets so cloudy and ugly almost before we realize it? A little vinegar will bring it back to its shining state once more.

The Oil Stove

When putting away that cheerful oil stove for the summer months, grease it well with vaseline and wrap newspapers around it. When it is needed in the fall, when it is needed in the fall, wash it with soapy water and polish with a soft cloth. The stove will never rust, and the nickel will always be bright if this precaution is taken.

Don't Do It

Don't look in dark closets with a lighted candle or match.
Don't put hot ashes in a wood container. Use metal ash cans always.
Don't use any matches but safety matches and keep those out of the way of the children.

Don't start the fire in the kitchen range with kerosene. It is very dangerous practice.
Don't use cleaning fluids in a room where there is a light or fire. Do your cleaning in the open air.

To enable the busy housewife to determine without testing or guessing the age of milk, contained in partly filled bottles, a set of metal bands for the neck of bottles is now available.

CAN. OLDEST TRAINMAN CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY AT TRURO, N. S.

MONCTON, N. B.—Claiming to be Canada's oldest trainman, Robert Williams of Truro, N. S., rounded out the ninety-one mark on March 1. He was born at West River, Antigonish County, Nova Scotia, March 1, 1839, and when seventeen years old got a job on the construction of the Nova Scotia Railway. Feeling the call of the sea, he joined a sailing vessel and rounded "The Horn." On a trip from Liverpool, Eng., with troops for a far-off station, his ship was wrecked while rounding the Horn and he was among the 49 saved. Once he felt forty feet from the rigging and broke an arm and also injured an eye. In the early twenties he decided to give up the sea and in 1874, joined the service of the Intercolonial Railway, now part of the Canadian National at systems, and retired on pension in 1910, at the age of seventy-one.
